

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

A Ford touring car stolen Friday from a point near the Community house in Plainfield was recovered at 3 a. m. Saturday on a highway where it had been abandoned in the town of Canterbury. It appears that trouble with the coil and switch of the car caused its abandonment. The machine, which was being driven by Howard McFarland of Central Village before it was stolen, is the second to be taken by thieves in the town of Plainfield within a short time.

Members of the Holy Name and Sacred Heart societies assembled at St. James church at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon and took trolley cars for Putnam, where they participated in the county demonstration in honor of the Holy Name. St. James band of Danielson was with the Danielson delegation in the procession. Several hundred Danielson people were in the throng that gathered at Putnam from all parts of the county.

From 9 o'clock Saturday morning until five in the afternoon the selectmen, town clerk and registrars of voters were busy admitting new voters at the office of the selectmen in the town hall building. Nearly all of those admitted were women. At five o'clock other applicants were waiting to be made, but the officials were unable to do so because of the late hour. Those applicants who have not been admitted will have another opportunity Wednesday of this week and still another on Tuesday of next week.

Hartford papers note that one of the largest building permits ever issued by the city of Hartford has been given by the building supervisor to a New York construction company, which is to erect the new banking home of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, of which Nathan D. Prince of Danielson is a vice president. The new building is to be fifteen stories in height and will have two mezzanine floors and 156 offices. The estimated cost of the structure is $2,000,000.

The exterior construction will be stone and brick, with a front of pressed brick. The visit here of Congressman Augustin Longenecker, who talked at a rally in the town hall, drew together a considerable number of democrats and a scattering of republicans interested in hearing the opposition arguments in the present campaign.

It was announced Sunday that Walter E. Pringle of Attitash, will be a candidate representing the Second district of the town, for a republican nomination for representative at tonight's caucus of the party. Attorney T. L. Darbie is the candidate for the nomination from the First district.

During the course of his announcements at the Sacred Heart church in Watertown Sunday morning, Rev. J. C. Mathieu, used the members of his congregation, to register and qualify as voters, pointing out that the right of suffrage is one that is a great privilege and one that should be exercised for the great good and welfare of the nation.

At a recent meeting of the state board of charities, its secretary, Charles P. Kellogg, in reviewing conditions coming under his observation in connection with the organization's work throughout the state, mentioned that the town of Plainfield was ordered some time ago to erect a new almshouse, but according to Secretary Kellogg, has complained of the high cost of building materials. The board has recommended that the town proceed with its plans for a new building. The present almshouse is well kept, Mr. Kellogg said, although it is an inadequate almshouse.

Hunters who went into the woods in this territory Saturday experienced a great boobying under a scorching sun that ran the mercury up to over 80 degrees. The intense heat and the density of the foliage, which has been hardly touched by the light frosts of this fall, made a combination that practically spoiled the hunting prospects of most of those who went out, but some pheasants and partridges and a few quail, woodcock and rabbits were brought in.

Agent Daniel O'Connell of the N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R. company said Sunday afternoon that he had received a message stating that the telephone recently removed from the ticket office of the railroad station here would be restored as quickly as possible. This is taken to indicate that the Western Union Telegraph company will restore its service here to what it has been in the recent past, and that local people will not have to depend on any such unsatisfactory arrangement as surely would result if this town's telegraphic business had to be handled over the telephone with the Western Union office in Putnam.

Mrs. Ethel Spaulding, who has been ill at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Judson, is recovering. Miss Lauretta Nado, daughter of Mr. Charles Nado of School street, is leaving today (Monday) to attend a convent school in Woonsocket. The mill of the Davis and Brown woolen company at East Killingly is continuing operation after the telephone with Henry McDermott of Woonsocket spent Sunday at his home in Danielson.

Mrs. Amanda Hargraves, 48, died during the early hours of Saturday morning at the Sacred Heart church in Watertown Sunday morning. Rev. J. C. Mathieu, used the members of his congregation, to register and qualify as voters, pointing out that the right of suffrage is one that is a great privilege and one

PUTNAM

At the Putnam High school tomorrow (Tuesday) at 3 p. m. a track meet between Putnam High and Danbury High Webster will take place. The meet was originally planned for Webster, but lately the plans were changed and the high school athletic field here will be the location of the contest. Last year the local boys defeated Webster 42 to 15, and this year they are confident of doing at least as well, especially as Webster has lost some of its best point-winners. Since the interclass meet a few weeks ago, the local boys who were chosen to represent Putnam have been in training. Pierce and M. Ames show promise as high jumpers, each having jumped four feet nine inches. Friday evening in the high school hall S. F. Blood entertained a large audience with his humorous discourses and witty jokes.

The football team of the Pomfret school defeated the second team of Danbury yesterday afternoon 7 to 0. The score was made in the first few minutes, after which, though they doubtless tried hard, further team was unable to score. Several boys from the Putnam High school, together with Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Snow, attended the game.

The merchants' committee of the Putnam Chamber of Commerce held a meeting recently and recommended that all stores in the city close on the afternoon of Armistice day, Nov. 11. This action was taken with the idea that the town and city depend on the services of men and women who are serving in the army and navy, and this year it is hoped that other organizations, municipal, patriotic and fraternal, will co-operate with the post for a general celebration. The entertainment committee of the post has engaged the hall for that night and plans today (Monday) to attend a convent school in Woonsocket.

The local troop of Boy Scouts meets tonight (Monday) in the high school gymnasium. Friday evening St. Philip's church is to give a public reception to the new rector and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. John Honey. Mrs. Georgianna Longden, who has been spending several weeks with her son on Lowell, Mass., has returned to her home on Grove street.

Jacob Bakker of Sawyer district, Putnam, has a remarkably well trained German police dog which he bought as a puppy about two years ago. This dog, Mr. Bakker claims, is the best assurance against burglars or automobile thieves that he knows of. This species is rare from this line of ancestry and requires much training to become domesticated. He seems to understand every word spoken by his master, and at the word "friend" is perfectly harmless. He shows all the instincts of the wolf in his keen scent, and upon a word from his master will guard any property placed in his care. When sufficiently aroused, his ferocious appearance alone would be sufficient guaranty against intrusion.

Another meeting under the auspices of the latter day saints was held in the Orpheum theatre Sunday afternoon. Edward Nash, who was seriously wounded by a bullet from a rifle a week ago last Friday morning, was reported Sunday as on the road to recovery at the Day-Kimball hospital in Putnam. The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Nash of Franklin street.

John Lusk of Lynn, formerly principal of the Danielson graded school, spent Sunday here with his family, which he is soon to move to Lynn. Thomas Elliott and Howard Elliott left Sunday afternoon for a few days' stay at their home in Rocky Hill and will return here about the middle of the week.

MONTVILLE

The Social Union was entertained by Mrs. Thomas Watt of Palmerton, one of the members, Wednesday afternoon with eighteen in attendance. This was the first meeting of the union since the summer vacation. The members sewed on patch work and Mrs. Watt entertained with selections on the Victrola. It being Mrs. Watt's birthday she was presented numerous gifts. Among them a box of candy from the Union. The collection amounted to $1.00. Mrs. Watt served sandwiches, cake and tea.

Miss Agnes Auwood was a recent guest of her aunt, Mrs. Dolbeare, of Quaker Hill. The funeral of Mrs. Jane Shields, 76, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Kent, was held Saturday morning at the home of the deceased. The service was held at 10 o'clock. Burial was in the cemetery. John Slattery, at Pomfret, Thursday night, was held Saturday morning.

There seems to be a revival of interest in the game of checkers in town. Some of the old-time players are trying again to get into form, and before the winter is over there will probably be many interesting games played. At the present time there is quite a question as to who is the champion of the city, but a certain well known lawbreaker and a gentleman from the city are determined to settle the question for the honor.

That the Christian religion is neither dead nor dying, but remains a powerful force, which, combined with the patriotism of the people, guaranteed the future of the nation, was impressively demonstrated here Sunday afternoon, when nearly 3,000 Catholics met to witness the various parades of Windham county marched through the streets of this city in a remarkable demonstration in honor of the Holy Name.

Thousands who thronged the line of march and were representative of about every section of this part of Connecticut, could not but feel that such a display of confidence in faith and the church and veneration for the Savior means much to the nation so this particular time.

It was patent to the thoughtful observer that here was a force of good, a force which, having dedicated itself to clean speech and respect for holy things, is to be depended upon in any of the crises that may face the nation, to be on the side of right, that religion, under a liberal and beneficent government, may continue to flourish and expand its good work as the nation reaches toward the great destiny that the founders of the republic conceived for it.

All the modern day lens seemed puffy Sunday as the splendid demonstration, enacted on even a larger scale than every other county in the state, shed light on the forces who still cling with profound faith to the Christian teachings of the ages, who continue to venerate the name of Christ and who will stand like mountains of granite against any trend of modernism that threatens Christianity and free government, the blessings of which seemed to be lost on multitudes in this turbulent period.

Not a parish of the county failed on Sunday to send its representation to this city. Shortly after 2.30 o'clock the great procession moved out of Providence street and through Main street into the business section, then through Union square and back into Pomfret street and to Church street, where, at the provincial headquarters of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost, thousands listened to the stirring addresses dealing with the principle of honoring the Holy Name of Jesus, then knelt as a solemn benediction was given. Then was not a hitch in the carrying out of the arrangements. Marshal F. X. Luger and his staff of mounted aids are to be credited with quickly organizing the line of marchers and getting them underway, while, due to the excellent policing arrangements of Captain J. H. Bulger and his efficient force of the police department, the line of march was kept unobstructed and the procession moved smoothly over the route laid out for them.

That there was full understanding of the religious atmosphere surrounding the great demonstration was attested by an almost total absence of applause for different delegations from the thousands who witnessed the procession. There were many temptations to cheer, but these were automatically suppressed, it seemed, by the thought that here was a great marching, not for applause, but to demonstrate to the world that the Catholic church still clings to the teachings that Christ himself first gave to humanity and that there are as unchanging and immutable as eternity itself.

The order of the marchers was practically the same as announced in the Bulletin Saturday morning. Close behind the police escort and Marshal Luger and his staff came the Polish American band of Willimantic, heading the delegation from St. Joseph's parish of that city. As the head of the procession swung from Providence into Main street the thrilling melody of Adele's Fideles sounded the keynote of the afternoon's demonstration and the marchers passed through lines of people, who, though silent, received the marching hundreds, had lost nothing of the impressiveness of the occasion.

The Willimantic delegation, representing two parishes, was the largest in the entire procession, but Putnam, the Groveland and towns to the south made impressive showings. Practically all of the marchers carried Holy Name society banners and here and there was the banner of a Sacred Heart society. The uniformed guards from Willimantic, Plainfield and North Groveland made a fine appearance and noted among the Groveland marchers was a great American flag, symbol of liberty, carried by a band of stalwart marchers, giving every evidence of their ability to defend it, now and forever.

Thousands gathered with the marchers about the grounds of the provincial house of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost, on section, then through Union square and back into Pomfret street and to Church street, where, at the provincial headquarters of the Sisters of the Holy Ghost, thousands listened to the stirring addresses dealing with the principle of honoring the Holy Name of Jesus, then stration a success were immensely pleased with the splendid showing made by Windham county parishes. Absolutely perfect weather conditions added to the joy of the day for all who participated in the parade. The parade was a religious and patriotic spectacle as rarely been seen in this county.

There was a collision of automobiles in front of Lombardo's fruit store on Main street Saturday afternoon. Arthur V. Vorse, driving a Buick touring car, and Rev. J. Spencer Voorhees of Pomfret in a Dodge sedan. A car was coming down the hill, the opposite direction and Vorse suddenly turned to the right hand side of the curb, striking a Ford delivery truck belonging to Mr. Lombardo, smashing in the headlights and radiator, and causing other damage to the Buick. Mr. Voorhees to avoid the collision with the Buick turned up on to the sidewalk and his machine escaped with slight damages to the running gear and a punctured tire. Mr. Lombardo's little daughter was struck and thrown down by one of the cars and his son was also knocked down and bruised. Two boys who were sitting in the truck at the time of the accident escaped without serious injury.

PISO'S

Announcement

Owing to circumstances beyond our control and for which we are in no way responsible, our agency for Buick Cars in the towns of Putnam, Killingly, Pomfret, Thompson, Woodstock, Brooklyn, Plainfield and Sterling has been discontinued.

We desire that this fact should be known to the automobile-buying public, whose confidence we feel we have earned and which we think has been expressed by the large volume of business given us.

Our policy has been a square deal for everyone and in this we have our reward.

In continuing this policy of irreproachable dealing with the public and in rendering high grade service to motorists we wish to announce that in the future, as in the past, we shall be in a position to render to our clients Buick up-keep service at our station in Putnam.

We feel obligated to render this up-keep service for the convenience and satisfaction of the large number of persons who have purchased cars from us.

Within a very short time, we shall announce our new line of high grade motor cars.

Herewith we wish to express our appreciation of the confidence that has been shown to us by the motor-buying public in this territory.
